About

Patrick is a highly experienced practitioner who specialises in defending cases involving murder and manslaughter. After years prosecuting high-profile cases involving terrorism and serious fraud, Patrick specialises in defending homicides where he combines a meticulous approach with an ability to put defendants at their ease. He devotes time and attention to evidential detail on the long-held principle that time spent in reconnaissance is seldom wasted. He has a good network of expert witnesses and a strong knowledge of firearms and ammunition. Patrick prides himself on his ability to communicate with defendants, giving them the time they need and helping them remain calm despite the serious charges they may face. He believes in taking time to support the family of a defendant helping them stay aware of what is happening during a period of difficulty and stress. Patrick is also a recorder with both criminal and civil jurisdiction, and a tribunal judge with the mental health review tribunal. Interests Patrick teaches advocacy at the University of Hertfordshire
