About

Llewellyn practices within Chambers Crime, Regulatory and Private Prosecution Teams. Llewellyn practices predominantly in the Crown Court, however he is available to receive instructions to represent or advise on both pre-charge and post-charge issues, as well as appeals from the Magistrates and Crown Courts. He is available to advise or represent on a range of issues including Driving Matters, General Crime, Private Prosecutions, Criminal Housing offences such as Unlawful Eviction, Environmental Protection Act prosecutions and HMO offences, and POCA proceedings. Furthermore, he appears in the Youth Court to defend young clients for serious offences, including Serious Violence, Robbery, Drugs Offences and Offensive Weapons. Alongside his criminal practice, Llewellyn has experience being instructed in Taxi Licencing Appeals and Civil Confiscation. Llewellyn is also developing a thriving private prosecution practice. He is regularly instructed by local authorities on matters concerning the Housing Act, Environmental Protection Act and the Protection from Eviction Act. Llewellyn is currently working with other members of Chambers in designing a training programme for local authorities on bringing private prosecutions in the Magistrates and Crown Courts.
